German Defenses Crumbling From Baltic to Hungary

COASTAL EAST PRUSSIA

Cities, Towns Engulfed By Hundreds as Russians Surge Into Reich

MOSCOW, Jan. 30.—(INS)—The Soviet First White Russian Army armed through northeastern Germany today on a 30-mile front, making swift advances which reached within 92 miles of Berlin and 55 miles of the vital Baltic port of Stettin.

While German defenses crumbled along the vast front from the Baltic to Hungary, the Russian Second and Third White Russian Armies restricted their ring of steel about East Prussia and closed in on Koenigsberg from two directions and were less than two miles from the provincial capital.

Cities, towns and villages were engulfed by the hundreds as Russian armies surged deeper into the Reich.

Marshal Gregory Zhukov's forces, which have advanced more than 100 miles since they started their offensive slightly more than two weeks ago, rolled into the German province of Pomerania in a mighty drive and seized the town of Koehnenlanke and Lukaskreuz along with 150 more localities.

The sweeping advance cut the main rail line between Danzig and Berlin in at least four places and over the famed Hitler "Autobahn" highway between the two cities.

Zhukov's forces also swept deep into Brandenburg to capture Waldenburg and Driesen, the latter only 92 miles northeast of Berlin.

The official Russian communique said that the battle of annihilation against the surrounded German garrison in Posen "continued" but reports stemming from German sources admitted the Soviets had reached the center of the city where bitter street fighting was in progress.

It was Zhukov's day on the eastern front. The Soviet communique announced that in addition to his gains in northeast Germany, his First White Russian columns scooped up another 400 towns and villages in the diminishing strip of western Poland still in German hands.

(Dr. Robert Ley, veteran Hitler henchman, eyed the rapid Soviet advance and began to prepare the German people for the fall of Berlin.

Letter Charred When Airplane is Wrecked

Mrs. John C. Johnson, Madison street, has received from her husband, Cpl. Tech. John C. Johnson, a letter which bears definite marks of the "wreck" in which the airplane carrying it was involved.

The envelope is considerably charred, and parts of the letter burned. A note accompanying the letter, written by the New York postmaster, states that the condition of the letter is due to the fact the plane carrying a quantity of mail was wrecked. Mrs. Johnson had noted that little mail arrived from her husband at that time, and is of the opinion that other mail to localities from relatives in England might have been damaged or destroyed in the same assignment. Since then, she says, her mail has been arriving as usual.

Lieut. Edwin W. Andrews Returns From Pacific Theatre of War

A VARIETY OF DUTIES

SELLERSVILLE, Jan. 30.—After 18 months in the South Pacific, Lt. Edwin W. Andrews, a chaplain in the Navy, is spending a leave with his family here.

Lt. Andrews is the former pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church at Ridge Valley, and Jerusalem Lutheran Church, Almont.

The former Perkaskie pastor has seen much action, and wears ribbons for participation in both the Atlantic and Asiatic theatres of the war. He also has a letter of commendation for his performance from his commanding officer.

Lieut. Andrews saw his principal action in the Pacific. He was in the invasion of Leyte in the Philippines last October, and served on Guadalcanal, in New Caledonia and at Bougainville.

When he landed in the Philippines, the invasion was only a few days old, and "there was still plenty of action" going on.

"American soldiers were crowded on the beaches there when I arrived," he said, "all in the open because foxholes were impossible. The conditions were such at that point that a whole dug to depth enough to provide shelter would fill with water.

"I watched the men standing watching airplane fighters in dog-fights, cheering like mad when a Japanese plane would go down in flames. Their morale was of the best and they acted like spectators at a football game," the chaplain said.

Lt. Andrews' duties when in actual battle were concerned with assisting medical detachments. He gave first aid and frequently administered blood plasma to badly wounded men.

His job was varied at other times. For a while he was serving a native Filipino congregation. In this capacity he married one couple, and baptised ten individuals. His official connection was with a Seabee unit that operated in coordination with General MacArthur's Sixth Army.

PANIC WHIPS THROUGH GERMAN TROOPS

Moscow.—Mad panic whipped like wildfire through the ranks of German troops and civilians on the Nazis' home soil today when tank-paced Red Army units fanned out over a 50-mile front and drove headlong toward Berlin, less than 90 miles away, late reports reaching Moscow asserted.

Adding 20 miles to the width of their front, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army troops struck for Berlin through northeastern Germany, touching off a wild hysterical note in German propaganda dispatches.

The DNB agency screamed that every suburb of Koenigsberg is shrouded in smoke, with "tens of thousands of men, women and children" wandering through driving snow and icy winds in an attempt to reach Samland Island or the city of Pillau, 25 miles westward on the Gulf of Danzig.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—King Peter of Yugoslavia agreed to transfer his powers to a regency council to be chosen by himself and appointed Premier Ivan Subasic to put into effect an agreement with Marshal Tito for a coalition government.

In this maneuver the King sought to straighten out the tangled Yugoslav situation by accepting the resignations of Premier Subasic and his entire Cabinet, which he had demanded January 22, and then re-appointed the Premier and five of the six members of the former Cabinet.

THEY SAID A MOUTHFUL

The Wallace controversy has had one benefit—it has produced several striking statements summarizing fundamental American problems.

The best nutshell description of the incredibly vast size and power of the Department of Commerce-RFC lending agencies, with a potential credit trust of some forty billions of dollars, was that of a Virginia Democrat, Senator Byrd, who termed it "a fourth branch of government."

Under this concept, which Wallace's prepared statement presented to the Senate Commerce Committee clearly shows to exist in Wallace's own mind, the lending agencies are largely independent of the judicial and legislative branches of government, and nearly free from executive control.

Nomination of Wallace, known to be a visionary fellow-traveller with the Hopkins-Hillman-Browder school of thought, to head this vast economic monopoly has produced the present widespread feeling that an effort is being made to "take over" the American government.

This thought was expressed by Congressman Bartel J. Jonkman, a Michigan Republican, who charged that the dismissal of Jesse Jones was part of a "concrete plan" to supplant President Roosevelt with "a Stalin," and that Roosevelt "is only the Kerensky of this revolution."

Jones himself expressed this idea, in somewhat more moderate language:

"The lending agencies of the Government can be administered, as they have been, on a non-partisan basis, for the benefits of all the people; or they can be used to destroy what we have built up in this nation in 170 years. That, to my mind, is the issue."

There were many points of contrast between Wallace's prepared statement, a demagogic harangue on the so-called Economic Bill of Rights, and what he had to say in response to direct questions at the Committee hearing. In the document prepared for public rather than senatorial consumption, Wallace showed his teeth to Congress in unmistakable fashion.

"I can tell you here and now that if the RFC is left in the Commerce Department, I will use its powers in the interests of all the American people."

Those Americans who are tempted to join the present fad of Congress-baiting might do well to study the qualification which Wallace made to this bold statement when he was actually in front of the Senate Committee. His intentions he said, were "... subject to the approval of Congress of specific policies. I want to indicate that if it were under my supervision I would be coming to the Congress and asking approval."

So even Wallace admits that Congress still has some standing left as the direct representative of the American people!

Americans who have been waiting for twelve years for the New Deal to answer the question of "where's the money to come from?" will be interested in one exchange between the Committee chairman, Senator Bailey, Democrat of North Carolina, and Wallace:

The Chairman: "Then, I gather that your plans contemplate continually increasing the

Coach Stackhouse Hopes To Have Team Play Defensive Game in the Contest

Trenton Catholic's high-scoring court team will come to the Bristol high school "gym" tonight to meet Coach Harold Stackhouse's Bunnies in varsity and junior varsity games. Opening tip-off is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

Trenton Catholic has scored over 140 points in its last two games, and in one of these contests, Morrisville High was the victim. Last Friday night, Bristol nosed out Morrisville by one point in an extra-period contest.

The Catholic boys are led by Tom McCarthy, who in his pivot spot manages to score many points. McCarthy is one of the leading point grabbers in Jersey. In order to keep the Catholic score below the figure they made at Morrisville, it must be necessary to stop McCarthy from piling in the points.

Coach Stackhouse will have his game starting line-up with the hope of playing a defensive game to keep the Jerseyites' score low. If the game is a high-scoring tilt, then Catholic will romp home with an easy triumph. Bristol's hope remains in a low-scoring game.

Trenton Catholic's junior varsity is also setting an enviable record this season, and is out to stop the four-game winning streak of Coach Bartholomew's boys.

PARATROOPER IS KILLED; 3 OTHER SOLDIERS WOUNDED

Pvt. Walter Drelick, Roosevelt St., Loses Life In Belgium

WM. RAGO IS HURT

Two Cornwells Heights Men Wounded: PFC Rutledge and Cpl. Kane

A Bristol paratrooper, previously reported missing in action, has lost his life in Europe, and three other servicemen from this area are reported by the War Department as being wounded.

The paratrooper killed is: Pvt. Walter Drelick, 266 Roosevelt street.

The wounded: Pvt. William Rago, 506 Jefferson avenue.

PFC John Rutledge, Cornwells Heights.

Cpl. Harold Kane, Cornwells Heights.

Pvt. Walter Drelick, 22, is the son of Mrs. Katherine Churchray, 266 Roosevelt street. He was first reported missing in action in Belgium as of December 24. A few days ago a telegram informed Mrs. Churchray that her son had been killed in action in Belgium on January 9th.

Born in Philadelphia, he came to Bristol at the age of three years. He had been employed for a time by George Wetherill, Bristol Pike. The young man entered the army in February, 1941, and went overseas in December, 1943.

Pvt. William Rago was wounded on January 4th, two days following his 20th birthday anniversary. The slight wound was sustained in Belgium.

Pvt. Rago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Rago, 506 Jefferson avenue, has been in the army since April, 1943, and went overseas last August. He had trained at Camp McCull, N. C., and at a camp in Tennessee. A chaplain's assistant, writing letters to Rago's parents, informs that the young man is doing very well. A brother, Cpl. Albin Rago, is stationed at Topeka, Kansas.

PFC John Rutledge, 29, suffered a shrapnel wound in his left arm on November 17th during the drive into Germany. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Rutledge, Bristol Pike, Cornwells Heights, have been so informed.

PFC Rutledge entered the service in June, 1943, just after his graduation from Har-Brack High School, Matrona Heights, Pa. He trained at Camp Hood, Texas; and spent one year in training for the army at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J. Later he had infantry training in Colorado. He went overseas in September, 1944, and since recovering from his wound has returned to action in Germany.

A brother also in the service is serving as a laboratory technician at Pratt, Kansas.

Cpl. Harold Kane, 39, of the U. S. Marine Corps, sustained a wound while in action on Saipan Island on August 1st. The injury was to his hand.

Cpl. Kane's wife, Julia Hart Kane, of Kings avenue, Cornwells Heights, received his Purple Heart medal during the holiday season. Kane, who entered the service two years ago, has been overseas one year. The Kanes have two daughters.

Harry Sutton, Jr., Wilson avenue, has been ill with gripe the past few days.

U. S. 3rd Army Scores New Penetration

Paris.—United States Third Army assault forces punched deeper into Germany today after scoring a new penetration of the Reich from the deflated Ardennes bulge battle area.

While the Paris radio reported intensified Allied pressure everywhere along the western front, troops of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army were reported in front dispatches to have seized a bridgehead two miles long and three-quarters of a mile deep inside the German frontier.

Troops of the Third waded through waist-deep icy waters of the Our River against murderous German machine-gun and artillery fire to gain the east bank and hammer into the outposts of the Siegfried Line.

The drive was pressed as units of the American First Army to the north drove eastward to seize the town of Bullingen, one of the first over-run by the smashed German offensive. Northeast of St. Vith the troops of the First gained nearly two miles against only scattered German resistance. They took Herresbach and reached the vicinity of Holzheim.

OVER-OPTIMISM DEcriED

The President hit the nail on the head with a request to all government officials to refrain from speculation on an early end to the war. The President wrote a letter to all heads of executive departments and independent agencies which said in part:

"At a most critical time, when production of essential supplies vital to the war effort must be kept at a high level, speculative public statements by responsible military and civilian public officials at home and abroad indicating an early termination of the war tend to curtail production of essential war materials."

"It is highly necessary that this condition be remedied and to this end all government officials are directed to refrain from such public statements."

It is true that the Allies are making steady progress in the war from an all-around standpoint, but it is difficult to understand how reasonably careful consideration of the situation at home and abroad can indicate anything but a long and bitter conflict against both Germany and Japan. Apparently many persons do not take the time to give the situation the consideration it deserves and are swayed by irresponsible, over-optimistic statements by officials who ought to know better.

The President's order is not so much censorship as it is the prevention of the creation of false impressions. It will be time to rejoice and sit back when the war is actually won, not wishfully about to be.

HISTORIC FORT

Fort Sill, Oklahoma, largest field artillery school in the United States, is celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary as a military post. Its establishment was ordered by Gen. Phil Sheridan who named the post after a West Point classmate, Brig. Gen. Joshua Sill, who was killed in battle at Stone River, Tennessee, on December 31, 1862.

Lieut. Col. George A. Custer and the Seventh Cavalry garrisoned the post when it came into existence, seven years before Custer was killed at the Battle of the Little Big Horn. Custer then was 29, had been a major general during the Civil War at the age of 25.

Fort Sill was for years a hub in Indian warfare. Geronimo and some of his Apaches were held captives there. Following opening of the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache lands, known as the El Reno drawings, Fort Sill lost its importance as a military post, but it was revived in 1911 when a field artillery school was founded, to be followed by an infantry school in 1913. Fort Sill became the artillery training center of the Army during World War I.

A series of fires after World War I, almost wiped it out, but in 1933 it was revived and it has graduated more than 25,000 artillery officers besides training many thousands of gunners. None of the old Indian forts has had a more active role in American history.

national debt instead of reducing the national debt?

Mr. Wallace: "Senator, I think that would require a very careful presentation that cannot be made in full at this time."

Wallace repeatedly refused to get into serious discussion of anything so important in his plans as a three hundred billion dollar national debt.

Senator Bailey persisted with two questioning statements to which the American public can well afford to give much more careful study than did the cagy Mr. Wallace:

"... the moment the American public begins to sell the (War) Bonds you are going to have very great difficulty carrying your debt."

"As I get it, when you get around to it, you expect we could pay the interest (on national debt) by issuing a lot of stock to finance it."

At no time in these discussions did Wallace say, or even hint, that the New Deal programs calls for a post-war program based on more than continued deficit financing.

One of the most interesting comments made by Wallace, who is in a position to know what goes on in the White House, was drawn after he had been tripped up trying to blame RFC for not building up a stockpile of rubber and quinine.

Reminded that this was policy determined by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, Wallace said:

"Frankly, I say it was the fault of certain advisers who should have informed the President."

While thus confirming the existence of a special fire-side cabinet running the Roosevelt administration, Wallace did not go the next step of identifying these mysterious "advisers."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Power of The CIO

Washington, Jan. 30. (IN REGARD) to the national service proposals, the power of the CIO lobbyists over Congress appears to outweigh that of General Marshall. Admiral King, the heads of the War and Navy departments and the President—all these have strongly urged national service legislation as essential to the war.

YET, national service such as they have now been abandoned and even the limited service bill for men 18 to 45 reported in the House a few days ago is said to have barely an even chance of getting through. It is true and not to their credit either, that the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce are opposed, but the effective opposition comes from the labor lobbyists—particularly, the CIO—who have more political influence with both executive and legislative branches of the Government than all the business organizations combined.

NO ONE is likely to dispute that, and no one is likely to dispute that but for the labor lobby the enactment of a real national service act would be assured. The elimination by the House committee of the provision allowing a man ordered to work in a plant with a "closed-shop" agreement to decide for himself whether or not to join the union is evidence of the labor lobby power. The committee voted this in one day, but jerked it out a few days later on the ground that it was "dynamic," by which it meant the bill stood no chance of passage with it in. As it now stands, men sent by their boards to "closed-shop" plants will be compelled to join the union whether they like it or not.

AS THE "closed-shop" plants are increasing all the time and the drive of the CIO to make them the rule is supported by the Administration, the effect of this elimination practically puts Congress back to the closed shop too. That it abridges the freedom of the individual, extends the power of the labor bosses, is un-American and unfair are things which did not seem to have been considered by the committee. The "dynamic" idea appeared to be the controlling one. The merits of the amendment, obviously, were secondary. It was a typical performance—and not unexpected.

IT IS true that the recent election increased CIO strength in the House. There are more members anxious to placate the CIO lobby and more who keep in mind the CIO-PAC threats to still further "organize" in the congressional districts so as to insure that only "our friends" are returned in 1946. The House debate last week showed a cheap rivalry among certain representatives to be recognized as the CIO champion. It is true too that in the White House and in all the executive departments the CIO influence has been enhanced since it "delivered" in November. So far as the executive branch is concerned, this has become not a labor government but certainly it is almost the government of one labor faction. When Mr. Roosevelt appointed Mr. Wallace, the political reward was not so much for Mr. Wallace as for the CIO whose special pet Mr. Wallace is. Actually, Mr. Wallace did not bring Mr. Roosevelt any votes he would not have had anyhow—because, like Mr. Wallace, himself, the Wallace supporters had no place else to go. But the CIO-PAC, with its large campaign fund and its political organizations, got to the polls a great many Roosevelt voters who otherwise would not even have been registered. It is natural the CIO should want and expect to be paid for such political services and support.

IT IS primarily interested in pushing the closed shop and preventing anything in the nature of restrictive legislation, such as national service. But it is almost equally interested in getting "our friends" into the key executive positions, which is the chief reason it is so suddenly in favor of Mr. Wallace as successor to Mr. Jones. Another radical whom it is supporting and whose confirmation is pending is Mr. Anthony Williams, for Rural Electrification Administrator. Mr. Williams, a former left-wing social worker, until his abolition, was head of the National Youth Administration. He is a special favorite of Mrs. Roosevelt. With Mr. Biddle as Attorney General, and a few more Wallaces and Williamses in high positions, the CIO will be sitting very pretty indeed, for the next four years—that is, if there is not a big and unfavorable reaction among the people after the war, particularly among the returned soldiers. Members of Congress who are now afraid of the CIO's PAC may profitably ponder whether the time may not come when more votes will be lost than gained by being stamped by the CIO as one of "our friends." There are reasons to think that this is by no means unlikely.

Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary At A Dinner

PERKASIE, Jan. 30 — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Applebach, Wildwood, N. J., formerly of this place, observed their silver wedding anniversary by entertaining 30 relatives and friends at a dinner at Quakertown.

They were married in Philadelphia. Mrs. Applebach is the former Sadie Tranger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tranger, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Applebach spent most of their married life in South Perkassie.

They have three children, Mrs. Carl F. Bayha, Souderton, where the parents are visiting; a son, Ronald, at home, and Richard, who has been in the U. S. Navy for the past four years, and is now attending Bucknell University, where he is taking up an officers' training course.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Samuel Gaskell
Pastor, Emile and Tullytown
Methodist Churches

"Blessed Lord, who hast caused all Holy Scriptures to be written for our learning;" we confess our ignorance of those inspired writings, our disobedience to their precepts.

We are like lost mariners refusing to examine the chart in their hands, or stranded pilgrims of the desert, despising the guidance of the stars. "Thy Word is a lamp to my feet, and a light to my path," said the Psalmist, but in the pride of our hearts, we have flouted its admonitions, and rejected its teachings.

O God, may we pause for a little while, to get our bearings. We have lost the way. We do not know how to pray, and life has left us bewildered. Help us to listen to the Voice that will speak, saying: "this is the way, walk ye in it;" until once again we shall know the salvation of the Lord. These mercies we ask in Jesus' Name, Amen.
